Drip table by Hee Welling

Hee Welling

Hee Welling (born 1974) is an award-winning furniture designer. In addition to being exhibited at fairs and museums worldwide, his products can be found in a diverse array of interiors, from The Oslo Opera House to Australia's parliament.

Raised in the Danish countryside, Welling's lifelong appreciation for the outdoors can be seen in the honest minimalism of his pieces. Each of his creations is united by a distinctive visual identity as he focuses on clean lines and simple silhouettes. Welling works with a wide array of materials, with wood and metals used alongside non-natural elements like plastic.

While decidedly modern, Welling's work sits within the broader context of the Scandinavian design tradition. As such, his pieces are underpinned by a belief in function as the cornerstone of furniture design. Looking to Old Masters like Arne Jacobsen and Hans J. Wegner, he seeks to continue their legacy with carefully crafted pieces that prioritize logic. No detail, Welling believes, should be superfluous. Instead, he works through an intuitive design process to ensure that each of his pieces is optimized to its highest purpose.

Drip, a system of tables made from post industrial aluminium

Hee Welling's designs are distinguished by the consideration paid to the purpose they serve – and this thoughtfulness continues with Drip, a highly versatile and durable table system that has been designed specifically with the contract market in mind. Knowing that contract clientele requires their pieces to be flexible, Welling devised a table system that could adapt to different uses.

Arriving as a knock-down that can be easily assembled within a few minutes, once constructed, the table's aluminium structure allows for a long, slender profile that can be easily placed end-to-end with additional tables as needed. Such versatility extends to Drip's function: it works equally well as a meeting table in an office environment as it does in a restaurant interior, with cable management offered as an add-on solution.
